

Sarita Felder is an executive leadership and senior team development coach with over 20 years of domestic and global leadership experience and a passion for creating peace in the world. It is this passion that drives her to place particular emphasis on serving as advisor, thought and coaching partner to expat leaders as well as those with cross-cultural purview and global impact, supporting them in heightening their self awareness, journeying toward being their most authentic and effective selves, connecting deeply with others and creating extraordinary personal and professional results. Sarita most recently spoke in Singapore at a seminar on Global Peace and Understanding, co-sponsored by Singapore Management University and the Singapore SOKA Association, on the topic, "Becoming Whole: Finding the Missing Pieces."

Sarita holds an MBA from Columbia University in International Marketing and is Adjunct Faculty for the Center for Creative Leadership. She is an International Coach Federation Certified Executive Coach and Professional Certified Coach. Sarita previously spoke in Singapore at the Economic Opportunities for Women in Asia Pacific Sustainability Conference. For additional information about her coaching practice, please visit her website at www.saritafelderandassociates.com.