

Jennifer Steinmann is the chief transformation officer—strategy, innovation, and technology of the Deloitte US Firms, where she is responsible for Deloitte’s corporate strategy, driving innovation, and executing transformation. As a member of Deloitte’s US Executive Committee, Steinmann teams with Deloitte’s businesses to set the organization’s strategic direction, address strategic issues and opportunities facing the firm, and evaluate changes in the business and competitive environment. Steinmann is also responsible for executing the innovation blueprint for the firm and fostering and enabling innovation within and across the businesses. As chief transformation officer, Steinmann launched a new executive office to transform key aspects of the business and drive greater collaboration across the firm.