

By training I am a chemist and neurobiologist. I worked 20 years in the US, Switzerland and Germany in the biopharmaceutical industry in research, product development, portfolio management and strategy.

I am Head of Integrated Healthcare Services at the General Medicine & Endocrinology Franchise, Merck Healthcare KGaA, and leading the development of a primary healthcare platform for the underserved population in emerging economies. Starting in Kenya, the initiative aims to help reduce global inequalities in primary health care access.