

Myriam is a Partner in Deloitte Consulting AG in Switzerland. She has more than 15 years of experience in Consulting and Industry across several countries. She leads Deloitte's Human Capital practice in Switzerland. For the last 5 years she has grown and led the Organization Transformation and Talent practice in Human Capital in Switzerland where we serve some of the world's largest international organizations on their most difficult people challenges. Myriam's professional experience ranges from Strategic Change programs to HR strategies and implementations to managing people adoption and risks of large scale digital transformations. She has worked extensively across all industries and functions (HR, Commercial, IT and others) including Life Sciences and Consumer Business.

Myriam has a very broad base of experience and projects including HR strategy, design and implementation; managing people changes and adoption of Salesforce.com and other digital enablers' implementations; driving organizational design, learning and cultural change. Myriam has accompanied various clients as a real trusted advisor through difficult times of their transformation journeys. She clearly understands how to drive strategic change successfully.

Future of Work and Diversity & Inclusion are key topics nowadays in her internal and client roles: Internally Myriam leads the WIN for Deloitte in Switzerland and is the Consulting Partner in the Steering Committee for Deloitte's new workplace 2020 in Zurich. In market related topics, her team and Myriam advise clients on D&I topics and especially around the Future of Work: Workforce, Workplace and Type of Work – plus leadership, talent and engagement.

She is married, learns how to ride a motorbike and loves being a dog-mom.
