

Patricia Malanda began her career with international experiences (Europe-Africa) in the management of organizational projects with global stakeholders, therefore requiring distinct agility and constant adaptability.

She is responsible for training and coaching sessions of a national qualification programme at the University of Bern.

Her responsibilities also extend to 4 main training institutes (Centre Patronal vaudois, SAWI, CEFCO, Virgile Formation) where she teaches strategic management, international HR and project management.

Holding a Master in Business Administration, a Diploma of Advanced Studies in Project Management and a certificate as a group coach from the University of Geneva, she co-founded Calliopée Sàrl in 2011 to work closely with companies on their strategic thinking sessions and the coaching and training of their managers and project teams.
