

Laura Marquis has 22 years of Clinical Research experience within pharma and CRO businesses. Throughout these years, Laura has held roles in Clinical Operations, Project Management, Alliance Management and R&D Sales Management.

Laura is currently Senior Vice President, Mid Pharma and Emerging Biopharma Sales, at IQVIA™ where she is responsible for driving development of the segment's business strategies and partnership models in the U.S. and Canada for Mid Pharma and Emerging Biopharma customers.

Prior to this role at IQVIA, Laura was the Global Head of the Emerging Biopharma Segment, responsible for the development of the business strategy, customer insights and delivery best practices of the work performed for Emerging Biopharma customers worldwide. Laura also spent six years in alliance management with responsibilities for leadership, development and management of global strategic partnerships with services in Clinical Development, Consulting and Commercialization.

Outside of her time at IQVIA, Laura is actively involved in the local community where she holds board positions with the Carolinas Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and Leadership Triangle.