

Steven Player, PharmD, MBA

Steven is the Director of the Barnes-Jewish Hospital (BJH) Center for Diversity and Cultural Competency, where his multidisciplinary team delivers diversity & inclusion education, extensive language service support, and works to ensure the provision exceptional care that is equitable for all. Steven is a certified trainer of the Cook-Ross, Everyday Bias for Health Professions training, and unconscious bias training that is endorsed by the Association of American Medical Colleges. Additionally, Steven is both the co-founder and co-director of the BJH, Express Scripts, and St. Louis College of Pharmacy (BES) Pharmacy Summer Institute and creator of the Barnes-Jewish Hospital-Xavier University College of Pharmacy, pipeline initiatives focused on workforce diversity within healthcare.

Steven co-chairs the BJH and St. Louis Children's Hospital Campus Council for Equity & Inclusion, serves as adjunct faculty to Xavier University of Louisiana College of Pharmacy (XUCOP), is a member of the XUCOP's Dean's Advisory Board, Missouri Health Advocacy Alliance Board, and Girls Inc. St. Louis Board.

Steven received a Doctor of Pharmacy from XUCOP, and a MBA from Webster University in St. Louis. He is married with two children.