Business Development

Rachna Khosla is a Vice President in Business Development at Amgen. She is responsible for corporate development, strategic collaborations, M&A and licensing. Rachna joined Amgen in 2013.

Rachna brings over 25 years of experience in strategic biopharmaceutical deal-making. Previously, Rachna held leadership positions as a healthcare M&A investment banker at Lazard Freres & Co., Credit Suisse, JPMorgan and Salomon Brothers. She has announced deals over $150B in total value. Rachna also spent 2.5 years at Aventis Capital, Aventis' corporate venture capital arm, where she was a member of the investment committee and managed a portfolio of assets worth over a $1B.

Rachna received her MBA from Columbia Business School and her BA from Barnard College, Columbia University. She attended the London School of Economics for one year while at Barnard.

Rachna serves as a member of the Healthcare Sector Advisory Board for the Partnership Fund for New York City, whose mission is "to create jobs, spur new business creation and to expand opportunities for all of the city's residents and neighborhoods. The fund invests exclusively in NYC based ventures — both for-profit and non-profit."

In her spare time Rachna enjoys yoga, writing, reading, cooking and photography. She recently completed the Yogaworks 200-hour teacher training course and is a certified yoga instructor.
