Amy Wykoff, IBM Watson Health
Director of Watson Health Government Offering Management
Amy Wykoff is the Director of Watson Health Government Offering Management, responsible for developing cognitive products to meet the unique challenges of our government customers worldwide. In this role, Ms. Wykoff supports the product lifecycle from the identification of investment requirements, development, launch and operations.
Throughout her career, Wykoff has worked with government agencies and healthcare organizations globally to align IT investments with the emerging trends. Ms. Wykoff joined IBM as part of the Curam acquisition. Prior to joining Cúram Software, Santenello was Director of Product Strategy at Oracle. In addition, Wykoff served as an industry analyst at both Gartner and META Group.