

RAQUEL M. ARREDONDO

Assistant Director, Graduate Career Services
LeBow College of Business
Drexel University

External Bio:

A career management maven and business development partner, Raquel, Assistant Director of Graduate Career Services within Drexel University's LeBow College of Business, has combined her background in human resources and higher education to create strategic relationships across industry and discipline to provide student career opportunities and develop targeted talent pipelines for corporate partners. Her proven methods have helped her clients succeed in connecting with industry professionals, getting their resume read by recruiters, interviewing with ease and confidence, and ultimately negotiating a rewarding job offer. Her understanding of talent acquisition best practices and business has earned the respect of hiring managers and industry thought leaders.

Raquel is dedicated to working with clients and groups to effectively communicate their value proposition while defining their personal brand. She has been invited to share her expertise with organizations such as UrbanPromise Academy, Camden, NJ, Dress for Success "Going Places Network", Philadelphia, PA, Rutgers University School of Business Biz-Ed Program, Camden, NJ, National Society of Hispanic MBA's Annual Conference, and the Annual Pennsylvania Conference for Women. More recently, Raquel was awarded Philadelphia's Al Dia News "Women At The Top" award for her work inspiring and paving a path for future Latina leaders.