

Laila Rehan is a Solutions Executive on the Life Sciences team at Watson Health. Her role includes bringing cognitive solutions to the life sciences industry and consulting on ways companies can be leveraging Watson to transform their businesses in R&D, Drug Safety, Clinical, Commercial and HEOR. Laila has spent her career partnering across the Life Sciences value chain with stakeholders at pharmaceutical, medical device, and biotech companies to optimize their use of primary research, data and technology to address their business challenges. Laila holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Public Health from Rutgers University and a Master in Biomedical Sciences from the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey.